Reverence: Renewing a Forgotten Virtue. Often unnoticed, overlooked, and unappreciated, but still persistently stirring somewhere within us, lurks an aspect of human life that Paul Woodruff, a Professor of Humanities at the University of Texas at Austin, explores in Reverence: Renewing a Forgotten Virtue [New York: Oxford University Press, 2002]. Woodruff contends that reverence is something more fundamental than religion and that it is urgent that we coax it out of the shadows, befriend it ...

Reverence is an ancient virtue that survives among us in half-forgotten patterns of civility and moments of inarticulate awe. Reverence gives meaning to much that we do, yet the word has almost passed out of our vocabulary. Reverence, says philosopher and classicist Paul Woodruff, begins in an understanding of human limitations.
